Options for Exchange Rate Policy United Nations. Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific,2000 The exchange rate is a vital pillar of macroeconomic management. During the recent Asian crises many analysts argued that otherwise sound economic management in east and southeast Asian countries was undermined by deficiencies in exchange rate policies. An appropriate policy has to take into account the size, structural features and openness of the economy. It has to be consistent with monetary and fiscal policies and factor in the implications of policy evolution in major trading partners, particularly in the case of the least developed countries which have close trade and investment links with a large neighbouring country. This publication is the final output of a project for the benefit of selected least developed countries in the region. Country studies for Bangladesh, Bhutan, Cambodia, the Lao People's Democratic Republic, and Nepal are included.

Foreign Exchange System in Nepal Suman Acharya,2020 International economic relation and trade are occurred in different currency system. The currency of one country may not be tendered in another country. So, the natural person or organization requires buying the currency of target country. In fact it is the process of converting one currency into another currency, which makes globalization and international trade possible. Buying and selling of currency is made in spot market, forward market, futures market, swap market, and option market. Additionally, change in real price, structural change, speculation, inflation, interest rate, public debt, and status of terms of trade make effect in equilibrium position of exchange rate. Yet, demand and supply of the currency determine appreciation and depreciation of currency. Policy exchange rate is accepted as fixed rate, floating rate, crawling band, crawling peg, conventional fixed peg arrangement, pegged exchange rate within horizontal band peg, currency board, dollarization and no separate legal tender. Earlier mint par theory was universally accepted. However, in contemporary time, balance of payment theory and purchasing power parity theory are accepted as theories of foreign exchange. Market transaction is made through hedging, speculation, and arbitrage etc. Exchange control is made through unilateral method and bilateral method. Unilateral method includes bank rate policy, import and export policy, exchange equalization fund, exchange pegging, multiple exchange rates, rationing of foreign exchange, and blocked account whereas bilateral method includes clearing agreement, payment agreement, installment agreement, differed payment agreement, and compensation agreement etc as per necessity. Nepal has accepted fixed peg exchange rate regime with Indian currency and flexible exchange rate regime with rest of the currencies.

Annual Report on Exchange Arrangements and Exchange Restrictions 2011 International Monetary Fund. Monetary and Capital Markets Department,2011-10-25 Published since 1950, this authoritative, annual reference is based upon a unique IMF database that tracks exchange and trade arrangements for all 186 IMF member countries, along with Hong Kong SAR, Aruba, and the Netherlands Antilles. The Annual Report on Exchange Arrangements and Exchange Restrictions (AREAER) draws together information available to the IMF from a number of sources, including during official IMF staff visits to member countries. There is a separate chapter for each of the 189 countries included, and these are presented in a clear, easy-to-read tabular format. A summary table allows for simple cross-country comparisons of key features of their exchange and trade regimes. The report's introduction summarizes recent global trends and developments. It discusses such topical issues as exchange rate arrangements, current or capital transactions, or prudential regulations. The individual country chapters outline exchange measures in place, the structure and setting of exchange rates, arrangements for payments and receipts, procedures for resident and nonresident accounts, mechanisms for import and export payments and receipts, controls on capital transactions, and provisions specific to the financial sector. The report now provides more detailed information on the operations of foreign exchange markets and exchange rate mechanisms and better describes the regulatory framework for current and capital account transactions.
